August M. Ball is the founder, CEO, and Lead Consultant of Cream City Conservation, a two-prong social enterprise. First, Cream City Conservation & Consulting works with environmental, corporate, and community-based organizations to address internal cultures and practices that contribute to racial homogeneity. Through equity audits, inclusion surveys, racial literacy building workshops, policy and practice review and coaching, the firm provides insight and recommendations to organizations that help them cultivate inclusive and equitable environments, develop intentional green career pathways, culturally responsive programs, and identify and mitigate bias in all aspects of the organization.

Second, through proceeds from the consulting firm, the Cream City Conservation Corps provides paid training and work experience to young adults 15-25 years of age, whose social identities are under and inequitably represented in various conservation, agriculture, and green infrastructure industries. The model is a closed-loop system between the Consulting firm and the Corps program which cultivates the next generation of environmental stewards while preparing organizations to attract, develop, and retain a diverse pool of leaders. The Corps program is supported by profits from the consulting firm, fee-for-service contracts, and community partnerships.

August received her formal education from UW-Parkside and UW-Milwaukee. She studied Sociology, Community Education, and Non-Profit Management. A self-taught conservationist, she has continued her education informally via organizations such as the Center for Diversity in the Environment, The Student Conservation Association, Paradigm, Policy Link, and the National Outdoor Leadership School (NOLS).

A native of Southeastern Wisconsin but citizen of the world, having lived in Southeast Asia for 15 years, she speaks three languages fluently. When not teaching, August enjoys traveling the globe, cooking, hiking, and will shamelessly sing karaoke whenever the opportunity presents itself.

EXAMPLES OF WHO WE’VE HELPED:
Cream City Conservation utilizes a combination of social science-backed assessments, a suite of interactive workshops and presentations to build racial literacy and assist in developing a shared language. These components are critical to not only envisioning an organization’s desired future state but in cultivating the internal culture and outward communication necessary to make that vision a reality.

While we are clear that diversity goes beyond color and our workshops/assessments capture a breadth of diversity facets (including socioeconomics, ability, language, gender identity/expression, sexual orientation, neurodiversity, national origin, etc.), we intentionally center our teachings around race and anti-racism as it is the foundation of all other forms of oppression. We also center our work around race because people of the global majority continue to be disproportionately impacted by climate change and environmental injustice and therefore should be at the center of key decision making when it comes to sustainability.

We employ interactive techniques not only because they are the most effective for cognitive learning but because we believe the seeds of solutions lay within those experiencing the problem. We believe your organization already holds the knowledge required for resolution. What’s needed is often a skilled facilitator to foster internal awareness and guide action toward the desired future state.

Upon completion of our time together, past clients have revamped or created holistic practices affecting the employee/board member/volunteer life-cycle from attraction to selection to development to retention and when necessary: off-boarding. They've developed new programs to funnel talent into their succession plan, launched campaigns to build awareness and increased engagement from historically excluded communities. Diversity is the result of inclusive practices after all and the main marker of an anti-racist organization is whether or not racial justice and equity are embedded within all aspects of the institution.

At the end of our time together, you will have and benchmark of where your organization currently is and a roadmap with concrete strategies to achieve your desired future state.
Phase 1: Assessing Organizational Culture
Phase 2: Foundational & Advanced Level Workshops
Phase 3: DEI Strategy Design (aka The Roadmap)

Assessing Organizational Culture
Each member organization of the cohort will conduct an assessment of their organization using Cream City Conservation’s Culture Survey. The assessment measures culture, practices, and sense of belonging among staff as well as system structure, procedures, and program delivery of the organization. This assessment provides insights to help companies better understand the differing experiences of employees across social demographics via heatmaps. You’ll be able to identify and understand whether underrepresented groups feel that decisions are fair, their voices are heard, whether they see opportunities for themselves, and whether they feel a sense of belonging. The results will highlight areas where your organization is currently thriving and identify areas of opportunity. The assessment will help your organization establish a true benchmark of readiness to engage in racial equity work by evaluating existing organizational structure and culture. The consultant will compile results from the assessment and provide an overview presentation to the leadership team and help craft a presentation for the entire organization.

The assessment will be live for 2 weeks. The consultant will require 3 weeks lead time to compile data into an overview presentation.

To the right is an example of a customized heatmap based on survey responses for each factor. Each factor has an established set of questions. Your workgroup may choose to add 3 custom questions and two open-ended questions. A FAQ page will be provided to address any anonymity concerns of staff. If selected, the consultant will demo this platform.
In 2022, Cream City Conservation will host its first cohort model. This process is intended to help larger organizations phase in their equity work either departmentally or hierarchically and support smaller organizations of 100 or fewer. The cohort will cultivate space for co-learning and mutual accountability with the virtual workshop series and affinity spaces.

Each organization must establish a workgroup committed to moving racial equity work forward and possessing the power to hold their organization accountable to established goals. Cream City Conservation will provide support in establishing your workgroup if you do not already have one established.

The Phase 1 Assessment will still be customized via demographic heatmaps, 3 custom questions, and 2 open-ended questions for each participating organization in collaboration with your workgroup. Results of your assessment will also be provided to your organization confidentially (i.e. not shared with other cohort organizations.)

Individual assessments typically take participants roughly 7-15 minutes to complete. Assessments are anonymous. We protect the anonymity of participants by maintaining a minimum sample size of 3-5. When the minimum sample size per heatmap is not met, responses will be hidden but will still be counted in the overall organization score. Please see examples of identity protection below:

In this example, the scores for London are protected by also hiding Melbourne’s scores, even though Melbourne meets the reporting group minimum.
Phase 2: Foundational & Advanced Level Workshops

Foundational & Advance Level Workshops
Cream City Conservation recognizes that one-off education workshops related to diversity can be helpful in "planting seeds", but without intentionally following up the education with applicable strategies, they can do more harm than good. Because this work is lifelong and establishing shared language within a multi-dimensional organization on a historically layered, complex, and intersectional topic such as equity and anti-oppression, we have crafted a series of workshops that build upon one another.

This levels the playing field for entry into this work while leveraging the expertise of internal participants (staff, board, etc.) who are further along on their journey.

The next page will outline our standard suite of interactive virtual workshops. These will be conducted on an accelerated schedule (weekly). A sample timeline is available within this document.

Participation in the workshops requires attendees to complete advance readings that will be provided. These readings will require 30 minutes to 1 hour of your time.

Lastly, we ask participants of virtual trainings to adhere to a "one screen-one person" practice. We realize that in these unprecedented times our hybrid workplaces often have some staff/board members who are in-person while others are "calling-in" from home.

Limiting screens to one-person each allows for each participant to have equal footing and voice in the workshops and breakout groups.

Because the workshops are high content and fairly condensed, we recommend organizations host internal reflection spaces for participants who wish to dialogue further about readings and workshop learnings. These can be offered weekly, bi-weekly, or monthly depending on your organization's capacity.
Cohort Learning Model

Each organization is allowed up to 100 participants per workshop (unless the organization has purchased 2 slots, in which up to 250 participants are allowed). Joining other organizations in co-learning will allow for collective building of shared language and (ideally) collective action. During the virtual workshops, you will have time to work privately with members of your organization as well as with colleagues from other organizations during breakout groups. In between virtual workshops, your organization will spend time in reflection with guided prompts and readings.

Affinity groups are intended to bring people together over a commonality. We all benefit from interactions with people who share common identities or experiences. When you are in the numerical minority of a community, these bonding interactions may only occur during an affinity group.

It's no secret that the environmental industry is extremely racially homogenous. This means that BIPOC (Black, Indigenous and People of Color) may rarely have the opportunity to be in community with other environmental professionals who are non-white.

In addition, other social demographics such as neurodiversity, gender, LGBTQ+ affiliation, etc. also inform and intersect one's experience in the world of environmental work. Because our individual role in cultivating an equitable and just working environment will look different based on our identities and positions of power, the Phase 1 Assessment, coupled with interviews from Cream City Conservation will highlight the affinity spaces needed of the cohort.

Facilitation of the affinity groups will be co-designed by its participants with recommendations from Cream City Conservation. (See FAQ for more info on Affinity Groups.)
Reflective Leadership & Effective Communication

In this initial workshop, we will lay the foundation for effective communication by establishing mutual understanding across communication styles and leadership values. Participants from all levels of the organization will get clear on their unique communication style along with that of their peers. Participants will explore skills for communicating across differences, effective problem solving and empathy building.

Racial Equity & Environmentalism

Workshop participants will explore how compounded disparities impact communities of color in every corner of society. Be it socio-economic, political, educational, health, etc. In addition, communities of color remain disproportionately impacted by environmental hazards yet grossly under-represented in spaces that hold key decision-making power related to conservation and sustainability. This workshop will provide the history of the construction of race, a key component in driving these inequities, while also evaluating environmental policies that have negatively impacted the environmental movement and produced the racial homogeneity we see today. The goal of this workshop is to help participants understand why these inequities exist, so we can do something about them. Participants will develop shared language for how to discuss these issues and interrogate the intricate relationship between race and institutional outcomes. This workshop will be challenging as participants will be invited to examine the ways in which they have interacted with race on internalized, interpersonal, institutional, and systemic levels.

Foundations of Internalized Racism

This session helps participants understand why power dynamics exist among racial identities. As a follow-up to the historical context set in Racial Equity, this session will guide participants in assessing the impact of race on individual socialization and exam one's role and agency. This workshop fosters collective understanding of the implications of race and assesses the ways we unintentionally uphold these dynamics in our policies, practices, organizational culture, partnerships, funding, decision-making, etc.
Decentering White Dominant Culture

Participants will practice identifying the various attributes of white dominant culture in both the working environment and in personal behaviors and mindsets. Participants will leave with an understanding of how white dominant culture harms us as individuals and our colleagues across all racial identities.

- Understand the definition and components of White Dominant Culture,
- Recognize and evaluate harm done to self and others,
- Examine characteristics of white fragility and racial battle fatigue
- Articulate alternative practices/cultures that mitigate trauma and foster a thriving environment.

Social Identities & Intersectionality

Workshop participants will explore their unique identities and identify areas that intersect. This workshop will highlight the business case for prioritizing socioeconomics mindfully in organizational culture. Session participants will be able to:

- Articulate the definition of intersectionality
- Understand there is an aggregate impact when different identities are combined
- Understand how socio-economics impacts the culture of work in America and how to identify and eliminate inequitable practices

Recruitment & Retention for the 21st Century

In this workshop, participants will learn how to attract a diverse candidate pool and cultivate the culture necessary to foster a diverse and dynamic team. Participants must be ready to objectively evaluate current hiring, recruitment, evaluation, and staff development practices and strategies. Session participants will be able to:

- Debunk commonly held myths regarding talent acquisition
- Evaluate sample job/volunteer descriptions with an inclusive, equity lens
- Identify existing practices that contribute to homogeneous work teams
- Gain tips for cultivating equitable workforce practices, identify other areas of opportunity

Equity Tools Practicum

In this session, participants will review various tools for equitable decision-making and facilitation of challenging topics (especially across remote teams) and practice using them within the unique aspects of their organization. This session will also provide an opportunity to unpack initial recommendations secured from the initial assessment.

Tools include but are not limited to:

- Equity Lens Framework
- Spectrum of Safety
- Memorandum of Mutual Accountability (MOMA)

WWW.CREAMCITYCONSERVATION.ORG
We have more than 100 people. Can we still participate in the cohort?
Yes! You have two options. Option 1: If you have up to 250 people, you can purchase 2 Cohort Packages at $20,000/each and utilize 2 slots. Option 2: You can phase the participation of your organization starting with your most senior level staff to mid-level managers and then reserve a slot for the next 100 people in the next cohort. (At the moment, we plan to offer 2 Cohorts in 2022 but may add a third based on demand.) Option 2 is a great way to ensure the effective roll-out of shared language and action for Justice, Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion.

What is a workgroup and who should be in it?
Each organization will identify up to 5 people from various departments, who will represent the organization in ensuring the heatmap categories (job level, tenure, department, etc.) for your assessment make sense for your company. The workgroup will also be tasked with customizing 3 additional questions and 2 open-ended questions to be added to the Culture Survey. Lastly, but most importantly, the workgroup will lead the charge in co-designing the organization’s Roadmap. Representation from senior leadership, mid-level management, and foundational support is ideal to ensure diversity of perspective on the organization and power to move Roadmap commitments forward.

Will the workgroup be able to collect feedback from other colleagues before finalizing the Roadmap?
Absolutely. In fact, it’s required. The workgroup will present their initial draft Roadmap for organizational feedback, incorporate that feedback and present again for final edits.

If we choose Option 2, does this mean only the senior level staff will take the Culture Survey?
No! Your entire organization will still be required to participate in the Culture Survey to gain a baseline assessment for your organization.

Why can’t we customize the entire Culture Survey?
The goal of the assessment within this cohort is to establish a benchmark of not only how your organization is doing against its own goals but to evaluate how the environmental industry is doing as a whole. We also want to measure the impact the cohort experience has on your organization’s progress as well. Want to use our platform for a special assessment? Send us an email!

What if some of our staff can’t attend all workshops?
It’s best for all staff to participate live in the workshops, however, we understand life happens. Workshops will be recorded and made available for one week. Each workshop builds upon the one prior, therefore staff are required to review recordings and complete pre-reading (plan for 30 minutes to 1 hour) prior to the next workshop.
Who should our organization’s Main Contact be for the consultant? Each organization will identify the main contact and a backup contact. While this does not need to be the executive director, it’s best if the two contacts are key decision-makers and/or individuals who have the capacity to maintain regular communication between the consultant and the organization. Communications managers, Culture Officers, Human Resources, and Executive Assistants may all be ideal selections.

How will the Affinity Groups be established and managed? Members of the cohort itself will establish the affinity groups it feels would best serve them. The Consultant will provide foundational support and tools for launching and facilitating the groups, however, the groups will remain sovereign.

Should White people, cis-gender men, etc. have an affinity group? Absolutely! Here’s why. Establishing an affinity group for those of a dominant identity can help reduce the burden on marginalized people. Having a safer space for those of the dominant identity to seek clarity, gain knowledge and share concerns without fear of causing harm to colleagues is catalytic to progress and continued accountability for growth. This is also where the work of White allies and abolitionists who are further along in their journey, is most impactful.

Do we have to pay the $20,000 all upfront? A non-refundable deposit of $500 is required to hold your organization’s spot in the cohort. Payment plans are available and include a 5% fee.

The deliverables are aligned with what we need, but can we work with you privately? We’d love to have you as a private client. Complete the Client Questionnaire and we’ll be in touch.

Wait! I still have questions! Let’s talk. Complete this application and you will be contacted to schedule a private information session.

Tip: It’s best to have all key decision-makers present at this meeting.
